“ I was one of Duane's last close friends. He worked and lived just one block away from my home in Tacoma. Duane quickly became a permanent part of our community. It was easy to become pals with him - we were very good pals until the end. I know Duane had two boys. I'm writing this so those two boys know that, although there was some sort of separation, your father constantly thought about you. The proof is that he couldn't shut up about either of you. It has been more than a decade since his passing. He had such a sweet spirit - I just can't forget about him to this very day. I hope one day each of his boys will stumble upon this post and - maybe feel the hugs he wanted to give you when he was alive.

“ I learned what "real" food was from Duane. Seriously, if you never had his roasted garlic platter, you have not tasted what he could do with food. I tried things that I had frequently turned my nose up to because I knew I would be delicious. And the pasta...oh wow...every pasta dish was amazing!
His laugh was contagious and you could hear it from 3 rooms away. It was very rare that I didn't see Duane with a smile on his face when he was talking with friends or talking about food. And boy did he love growing food! I loved seeing what new things he had planted when he had so very little room growing stuff on the apartment balcony. And I was just darn jealous of the garden he grew when he finally had the room to do it right. He was very talented. I see that in his boys. He'd be so proud of what a hard worker Sam turned out to be, just like he was - taking pride in his work. He'd be just as thrilled to know what a riot both of them are, I know that everybody in the afterlife is hearing him laugh when he watches his boys.
I'll always remember Duane and I'll always be grateful for his introduction to what real food could be and of course, I'll always hear his laugh when I think of him.
Rest in peace, Friend.

“ I was so sorry to hear of Duane's passing. I always had such a good time working with him at Nunnley's and just hanging out. He always had a big smile for everyone and was just a genuinely happy person. I will always remember him fondly. My heart breaks for his family and my thoughts and prayers are with them all. Love you

“ I had the pleasure of working with Duane over the past few years. I didn't know Duane on a personal level very well, but he was very passionate and enthusiastic about his profession. His energy level was one to be matched. It was noticeable through every conversation with Duane that his intense passion for food and the culinary arts was a part of who he was as a person. Duane would often come back from his weekend talking about food that he had tasted and read about. Duane was always upbeat and goal oriented, and his work ethic displayed a willingness to accomplish the tasks that were needed in order to feed his guest the high quality food that they deserved. Duane suddenly leaving us left many of his co-managers and employees missing him during the holiday season. It was an honor to work with someone like Duane who shared his smiles and laughter with everyone that he met. He will be missed.

“ Duane was the most passionate and enthusiastic guy I ever met when it came to all things cooking and food related, he really really loved what he did! You could not get a word in edgewise when Duane got to explaining his latest new found recipe or secret mushroom picking spot. He loved mushroom picking and gardening in addition to cooking and included his young sons, my nephews Noah and Sam, in that passion. Duane was a fantastic father when his boys were young and he was a great guy to have as a brother in law, always accepting, kind, funny and someone you could really look up to and respect his hard working passionate ways. His family and friends are all in my thoughts during this difficult time, most particularly his amazing sons that are now fine young men that Duane would have been so very proud of. It's a terrible terrible sad loss that Duane had to leave this earth at such a young age, the world will not be the same without him. Rip Duane!

“ Duane was absolutely the hardest worker I've ever met in my life. He loved to cook and he loved to work and he was amazing at both. He had a boisterous and infectious laugh. Everyone who met Duane liked him, and with rare exception, he liked everyone. He saw the good in people. He always thought he was born to cook, but the truth is he was born to be a dad. When we had Noah and then Sam, he transformed into the most amazing dad I've ever seen in my life. I've NEVER seen a man who loved his kids more, who was more devoted or patient, or who played with his kids more. Noah and Sam were absolutely the light of his life.
