Here I am, following somewhat in the steps of my granddad. My family had planned a vacation to Kushiro in 2024, only learning later that Robert Fealko had been stationed there in 1945. Here's one of the photos we recreated from his deployment there.

This is the portrait that Bob had taken of himself when he was stationed in Kushiro, Japan, after the end of World War II. Sergeant Robert E. Fealko was just 20 years old. He was definitely good-looking back then!
